The Comique is offering two well known pictures for the remainder of the week. The feature, "A Change of Heart," is a beautiful play. The contaminating influence of evil companions has caused more woe than any other moral agent. In this subject is portrayed an episode in the life of the son of indulgent parents. A life story convincingly told in a series of most beautiful rustic scenes, the work of the old farers is a fine bit of work.

WILLIAMSTOWN

Wedding of Lois Ardelle Chapin and Charles C. Cook Wednesday.
A pleasant wedding occurred at the Methodist parsonage at noon Wednesday, October 20, when Lois Ardelle Chapin, a niece of Mrs. Roberts, was united in marriage with Charles C. Cook of Thetford. The ceremony took place under an arch of green, brightened with clusters of the mountain ash berry, from which hung a bell. Both young people have a very large circle of friends, whose best wishes for a life of happiness will follow them. After a wedding trip among relatives in Canada, they will make their home at Thetford Center.

Mrs. James S. Hopkins hopes she is improving somewhat in health.
Supr. of Schools Casey thinks we have a superior teacher in our high school.
Mrs. I. Clement Little is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Jerry M. Hutchinson.
Many of our young folks are busy in the preparation of the entertainment for this evening, "Union Depot."
Deacon and Mrs. Edwin C. Smith attended the American Missionary association in Burlington this week.
We think there is a possibility that we may not just let lose Landford Leflingwell of the Williamstown inn.
Bert, son of Andrew Burnham, has moved from the old Pools house to Mrs. J. A. Flint Dickinson's house, in Mill Village.
Friends of our young granite worker, Joaquin Hox Maza, will rejoice with him over the recent birth of a son in Santander, Spain.
The village schools were closed on Thursday and Friday of this week to allow the teachers to attend an educational meeting in Burlington.
Mrs. Amelia House Graves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. House, will return next week to her home in Colorado Springs, Col., after a visit of a few weeks here.
After a stay of some weeks with the late Mrs. Prescott F. Blanchard, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Horace Blanchard, returned to her home in Boston on Thursday last.
Mrs. Charles D. Brookway is brave enough to take the mail daily in a drive of 25 miles over rural free delivery route No. 1, while her husband is having an outing of a few weeks at Pascham pond. The cheering report comes to us that Mrs. Etta McKee, wife of Frank H. Martin, is in much improved health, in Kirksville, Mo., where Mr. Martin is studying osteopathy.
We understand it that all that the Methodist church and society here are waiting for now is the new news for the building, which it will be reopened for worship. This renovated house of worship seems bound to give a great deal of satisfaction.

All who enjoy a rattling good foot ball game, see the one between Goddard and U. V. M. seconds, Saturday, at 3:45, on Goddard campus. Admission 25c, ladies free.
Among arrivals at the hotel Otis yesterday were W. A. Blackman, H. W. Taylor, C. W. Harlaere, John Harlaere, A. H. Whitney, Peter McIntyre, Boston; John A. Harris, Brighton, Mass.; Burt Fletcher, Chester, N. Y.; William H. Baker, Grovesville, N. Y.; J. A. Kelly, Lancaster, N. H.; P. Perrin, Berlin; Angelo Ubrino, Bristol.
The Comique is offering two well known pictures for the remainder of the week. The feature, "A Change of Heart," is a beautiful play. The contaminating influence of evil companions has caused more woe than any other moral agent. In this subject is portrayed an episode in the life of the son of indulgent parents. A life story convincingly told in a series of most beautiful rustic scenes, the work of the old farers is a fine bit of work.
